Give your skin some love!

The low temperatures and humidity during the winter season causes skin to become dry, and can result in poor barrier function of the skin, flare ups of eczema and dermatitis and increased sensitivity and itch.<sup>1</sup>

There are ways to counter the skin changes brought on by the cold. WHAT is an easy way to remember the four elements to an all-round approach to your skin health this winter:

Wash your skin with gentle cleansers

Heal your skin to maintain skin health and prevent damage

Avoid the triggers that cause irritation to your skin

Treat your skin with products that meet the unique needs of specific skin conditions

If you're struggling with your skin, speak with our pharmacy team about how best to manage your winter skincare routine!

Sometimes, it can feel like having a skincare routine requires too many steps or expensive products. If you want to streamline your routine, you can do it in just two essential steps:

1. Cleanse
2. Moisturise & SPF
